

UNITE THE UNION WORKING FOR ALL POLICE STAFF

"Uniformed support staff are subject to huge amounts of verbal and physical abuse, much of which goes unreported. Unite is campaigning for the protection of all Police Staff. Women, ethnic minorities and people with disabilities have had a raw deal in the past. We are vigorously campaigning to promote equalities for all"

Alan Reaney
Branch Secretary, Unite
South Yorkshire Police

UNITE THE UNION WORKING FOR ALL POLICE STAFF

Everyone wants the best for themselves and their families. Now Unite offers even more: specially tailored support and service for people who want more out of life.

Because we are the fastest growing union for Police Staff, we understand the pressures and stress of the work you do.

UNITE AT WORK

Police Staff are the hidden army of the police service, but without them the police service could not function. Joining Unite strengthen your voice at work. Unite aims to see Police Staff get the rewards and the respect for the job you do. That means:

- Protecting and improving pay and conditions.
- Winning better health and safety at work.
- Effectively negotiating with police authorities.
- Representation in grievances and disciplinaries.

Wherever you work there is:

- An Unite officer just a phone call away.
- A dedicated Police Staff Officer
- Representation on the Police Staff Council on issues important to you.

And the evidence shows you'll be better off with Unite. We have won over £1 billion for members in compensation through our expert legal team. A record by any standards - and exactly the standard of service you can expect from Britain's biggest union.

"There is a place for all Police Staff in Unite. My own branch has seen its membership increase from 80 to 400 in a few months because staff see that we represent them on issues great and small as well as campaigning nationally"

Carl White,
National Joint Council Officer
